

Trial . . .

(Continued from B-1)

tion of Jones, he attempted to discredit her recollection of details in the case by bringing out inconsistencies in her court testimony.

According to Jones' testimony at the preliminary hearing in October 1980, she first met Summers in November 1977. However, in Wednesday's testimony she said she first met him that August.

Guhin spent considerable time on other details like the descriptions of the two girls Jones first gave police, which did not match the descriptions she later gave at the preliminary hearing.

Another witness who testified Wednesday, Lynn Thomas Hart of Boise, Idaho, said he, too, saw Summers with two children.

Although Hart failed to correctly identify photos of Brandi and Tiffani, when asked if he knew their names, he said, "I remember Roy introduced one as Brandi."